Clark, NJ, January 2008

Neha Desai, Global eProcure's Executive Vice President of Business Development and European Operations, was selected as a finalist in the Stevie Awards for Women in Business. The Stevie Awards for Women in Business honor women executives, entrepreneurs, and the companies they run – worldwide. The Stevie Awards have been hailed as “the business world's own Oscars.” (New York Post, April 27, 2005).

More than 800 entries were submitted for consideration in more than 40 categories, including Best Executive, Best Entrepreneur, and Best Community Involvement Program. Ms. Desai was nominated as a Best Executive in a Service Company based on her achievements at Global eProcure and in the supply chain industry, as well as her community service involvement. “We are extremely proud of Neha's accomplishments in both her professional and personal life. Her selection as a finalist in the Stevies Awards for Women in Business is well-earned recognition of her hard work, dedication, and commitment to her company and community,” said Global eProcure CEO, Subhash Makhija.

Finalists were chosen by business professionals worldwide during preliminary judging. Members of the Awards' Board of Distinguished Judges & Advisors and their staffs select Stevie Award winners from among the Finalists during final judging.

“Being named a Finalist in The Stevie Awards for Women in Business is an important achievement,” said Michael Gallagher, president of the Stevie Awards. “It means that independent business executives have agreed that the nominee is worthy of recognition. We congratulate all of the Finalists on their achievement.”

“I am proud to have been as a finalist in such a competitive selection process. That the judges were all peers in the business community makes the acknowledgement that much more meaningful,” expressed Ms. Desai.
